

Understanding Your Contact Lens Care

& Professional Fees

“What are contact lens professional fees for?”

As a contact lens wearer, additional tests and measurements are done that are necessary to make sure your eyes are healthy, that your lenses fit properly, and to ensure that you are seeing as well as possible. Contact lens professional fees are for the extra testing and time taken by the staff and doctor each year to properly evaluate your contact lenses and eye health.

Corneal topography is one example of a test done for contact lens wearers. With this computerized data, we can detect any undesirable changes of the cornea caused by the wearing of contact lenses. A second test uses a microscope to examine the fit of your contact lenses and the health of the cornea. In addition, prescription measurements are done which are different than those done for eyeglasses.

“What additional tests are needed?”

“Isn’t this part of my annual eye exam?”

These contact lens-related tests are done in addition to the usual eye examination tests. These are procedures that only need to be done for contact lens wearers, not for patients who don’t wear contact lenses.

“Doesn’t my insurance cover contact lens professional fees?”

It depends on your plan’s coverage. Most insurance plans cover a routine eye exam which determines your eyeglass prescription and evaluates your eye health. Contact lens services are separate procedures. However, many insurances offer a contribution towards services and materials.

“How much does it cost?”

Depending on the type of lenses you wear, the cost for the contact lens evaluation ranges from $85 to $325
